$5 Million

Regents approves plans for "The Pub"

By FAY K. STORY
Inquiring Writer

The Board of Regents has allocated $5 million for a new glass and chrome building to house the offices of Georgia Southern publications, announced Acting President Harry Carter last week at an impromptu press conference at Dingus MaGees.

Construction will begin during summer quarter or within the next decade, according to Carter. "I have not been apprised of all the information, but I understand they'll build it someday."

The modern structure will feature a computer center for use by the George-Anne, Reflector and Miscellany staffs.

The main first floor lobby will be a welcome area for all visiting students, parents or anyone staggering in off the street, according to Pat Burkett, housing director, who will coordinate the lottery admittance into the building.

"We hope that anyone interested in entering the building will stop by the housing office first and try their luck at winning the chance to see this . . ." continued Burkett until she was interrupted by a visiting horde of gambling fanatics.

WVGS, the GSC radio station, will provide entertainment for the Publications Building. A state-of-the-art sound system will be installed to offer piped-in Progressive tunes throughout the proposed site.

The controversial aspect of this plan includes a top-floor lounge and restaurant for the staffs. Writers and editors can use GSC meal cards to purchase food and beverages. Mixed drink specials will be available during Happy Hour, which will be held for the first 59 minutes of every hour, confirms an anonymous alcoholic source.

The future office complex will be named "The Pub," according to Bill Neville, advisor to the G-A and the yearbook staffs.

"We hope to create an informal atmosphere for those students who control the GSC press. If they can't stand the heat, they can go up to the bar," said a serious Neville.

Plant Operations is planning a transportation system for the building. "We have completed an elevator scale model, with a back-up plan for at least two flights of stairs per floor. We are also working on escape windows, just in case we don't install the stairs properly," explained a knowing worker for Plant Op.

GSC faculty and staff moonlighting

By A. NONYMOUS
Unknown Writer

Limited budgets and the high price of living have driven some GSC faculty and staff to moonlighting in their spare time. Some have been so successful that after a minute or two of consideration, they have decided to leave GSC to pursue their new careers full time.

Security's Public Safety Sergeant and Criminal Investigator, Mr. Bobby NeSmith, was forced to sell his entire collection of Dick Tracy comics in order to pay bills.

"It was definitely a blow to my self-esteem," NeSmith said. In an effort to recover and find some meaning in life, NeSmith has decided to open a comic book dealership.

Mr. Erk Russell, GSC's head football coach, shocked the Southeast recently by announcing his resignation. Russell will begin filming Mr. Clean commercials this week.

"If Vince Dooley can cash in his team's success, I can too," Russell said. Mr. Randall Floyd, assistant journalism professor, resigned under mysterious circumstances last week. The word on campus is that Floyd, notorious for questioning the integrity of public relations, will change his identity before accepting an entry level position with a prestigious PR firm. PR majors across campus are snickering with delight.

Dr. John Humma leers in anticipation of a stimulating career as a sex therapist.

"The right price can change anybody's tune" one student commented. Dr. John Humma, professor of English, has resigned his post in order to set up practice as a sex therapist. Dr. Huma anticipates a smooth transition.

"Surprisingly enough, the teaching profession has more than adequately prepared me for the field of sex therapy," Humma said.

Many of his former students can verify his interest in the area. "He always wanted to know the sexual implication of particular passages he would cite in class," one student said.

Russell debuts as Mr. Clean.

Dr. Stan Hanson, professor of geology and department head, has decided to devote himself to pig farming.

"I've been gettin' down in the dirt all my life," Hanson replied. "I've met a lot of Jack asses at GSC and I'm looking forward to working with a much more intelligent animal."

Ever since the new lottery system for student housing was announced, offers from gambling casinos in Las Vegas and Atlantic City have been flooding in for Ms. Pat Burkett, Director of Housing. Rumor has it she may even replace Vanna White on the Wheel of Fortune. The administration denies the charges, saying no formal resignation has been filed. Word has it Burkett is holding out for the right offer.

Move over Vanna White!

Sodomy law violated

By JUSTO CONDOM

Fifty-nine people were arrested last weekend in Statesboro in violation of the Georgia sodomy law.

The suspected couples were followed from the drinking establishments because of the characteristics they possessed as described in "The Sodomy Criminal Handbook."

Fifty-nine of the 73 suspected offenders were arrested on the spot, while the other 14 were issued written warnings.

The Georgia Sodomy Security has been making many local arrests on GSC students and faculty caught in the act of violation of the Georgia law.

"You can look in a public crowd and tell which is one of those 'sick minded commies'," GSS Director Billy Joe Breath announced.

Along with the arrests, one thousand sheep and cows were rounded up last week by the GSS in an investigation to the rumors of wild aggression from some uptight GSC football players.

"We used videotape on these scums in order to guarantee a conviction," Breath announced. "No if's, maybe's or butts."

The Georgia Sodomy Security (GSS) has been under a lot of pressure from the community and Governor Joe Frank Harris to put "mouths back where they belong."

The GSS has already spent nearly two million dollars on the protection of the innocent from being subjected to this felonious crime.

The Georgia sodomy law states that a person or persons cannot engage in any unnatural sex act which might include oral sex between homosexuals or heterosexuals or what the entire GSC offensive line engages in soon after a boring loitering session at K-mart.

"It's a tough job but we are putting the public's money where their mouths are," Breath replied.

Anyone can pick up a copy of "The Sodomy Criminal Handbook" at the college bookstore or from Campus Security."

USSR overruns the Valdosta State campus

By CHE GUEVERA
Assistant News Editor
and Fidel Castro Staff Writer

After two years of relative quiet, the GSC Students for University Status (SUS) reemerged with a vengeance over spring break in a radical new form, the University Status Student Revolutionaries (USSR), when it successfully attempted a military takeover of Valdosta State College Campus.

Saturday night, March 21, after exams were completed, this crack covert paramilitary organization, numbering about 150 in all, moved on Valdosta in camouflaged Plant-Op trucks. A supportive air assault was carried out in state-of-the-art helicopters provided by USSR supporter Allen Paulson.

Valdosta's campus fell into USSR hands with surprising ease. This could be attributed either to brilliant strategies and excellent tactical maneuvers performed superbly by the USSR troops, or to the total absence of resistance due to VSC's preemptive evacuation for spring break.

The second phase of the operation involved taking VSC president Dr. Bailey hostage. This, too, was flawlessly executed.

After Bailey was taken captive, the USSR contacted the Board of Regents to negotiate for university status. The USSR identified themselves and their cause, but negotiations immediately broke down when Dean Propst of the Board replied in a bewildered voice, "Georiga Southern... what the #$%@?! is that?"

After three days of unchallenged occupation of the VSC campus, the USSR returned home demoralized and disgusted with the Board of Regents' lack of coherent response.

A USSR leader, who requested anonymity, commented that "it was impossible to stay. The parking there was woefully inadequate for the needs of a thriving university. After all, our slogan is 'all for university, and parking for all'."

Investigation into this operation revealed that its impetus was provided by a memo found in Dr. Lick's top priority file which, due to somewhat mysterious circumstances, had gone unnoticed for six months.

According to the memo, the primary thrust of the operation was to achieve university status for GSC. It was also seen as a means to alleviate overcrowded housing and parking situations on this campus. The memo fails to reveal how the administration was to handle the problems of commuting between the two portions of the expanded campus.

It is still unclear how the USSR procured their technically advanced weapons, some of which had laser-sighting devices, but some mention has been made of the names John Poindexter and Oliver North. Harry Carter denies any knowledge of the attempted takeover, but he has issued a statement equating the USSR with the Founding Fathers.

Despite the failure of this mission, USSR leaders are making plans to take the UGA campus later this month. The only foreseeable complication is the presence of UGA students, faculty, and administration. This mission is

The SCOOP on the SCAM

As another quarter begins for the staff of the George-Anne, we would like to look back on the news, sports and features articles that were published with the intention of being newsworthy and accurate.

This Special April Fool's Edition does not attempt to exemplify the virtues of true journalism. We of the G-A hope to amuse, entertain and not to offend our reading public with this issue.

This is our chance to write some of the stories we have wanted to write for the past two quarters.

Happy reading and Happy April Fool's Day!

Former President Lick resigns from Maine

Former GSC President Dale Lick resigned his presidential post at the University of Maine last week, according to unconfirmed, unreliable sources.

At his farewell press conference, Lick happily remarked, "I am grateful that so many people turned out to say goodbye."

Lick resumed his former career as a Mickey Mouse marathon runner impersonator in a race held last Saturday in Stiking Spring, New Mexico.

"When you wish upon a star, it makes no difference who you are," chirped the now daffy Dale.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Blacks are still underprivileged

DEAR EDITOR:

In recent works, there have been many articles concerning race. All I have heard lately has been Prejudice, Prejudice, Prejudice. Bigotry is uncalled for. I am familiar with both sides of the race debate.

I am a white male with a black girlfriend. She and I have dated since last spring. When I am with her, I don't think color; all I see is another warm, loving human being. However, we are not ignorant; we know that there is a large segment of our population that do not approve of our relationship. But that is just it. We are willing to take risks and ridicule to pursue our special relationship regardless of others' conceived notions of racial hierarchy and relations.

My girlfriend and I are both equal. Just because she is black doesn't mean she has to be a maid or work at Krystal's. White people need to abandon those long established stereotypes. Blacks don't need it, and they don't deserve it. It really embarrasses me sometimes.

Whites continually insist that they give rights to blacks, and that blacks are now just as capable of the same opportunities as any white. That is just simply untrue. Blacks are still underprivileged.

My girlfriend is a typical example. She attends college only because she is able to receive financial aid. She comes from practically a "ghetto" in the Atlanta area. I sympathize with her and other blacks like her.

When will Americans really be equal like our forefathers dreamed of? When can people appreciate other people without first considering color?

LETTERS POLICY

All letters to the editor are subject to standard editing policies for taste, libel, etc. The editor reserves the right to reject any letter. There is no word limit on letters and they are published on a first come, first serve basis. Letters should address issues and not attack individuals and all letters should be signed—it will be the editor's decision whether or not to print the name. Letters should be addressed to: THE EDITOR, The George-Anne, Landrum Box 8001, Statesboro, Georgia 30460, or brought by Room 110, Williams Student Center.

Why can't people love each other like I love my girlfriend?

Norman Marion Barker, IV

Housing lottery is unfair

DEAR EDITOR:

I am writing this letter in response to the article entitled "Lottery" in the March 5 issue of the George-Anne.

I am a new student on campus this quarter and I must admit that I am very surprised to hear of such a preposterous idea as lottering away housing spaces. This plan indicated the College's uncaring attitude towards currently enrolled students.

Pat Burkett stated that the "appointed" committee studied several proposals deciding upon this particular one. Why weren't the students involved in this decision? And what other ideas were considered?

Did the committee consider students on financial aid who may not be able to afford off-campus housing?

It appears that Burkett does not have her priorities set to help the future students of GSC. May I remind her that present students at this college are the students of NOW, are paying their tuition NOW and are paying her salary NOW!

Bookstore makes Georgia Southern self-sufficient

Due to special efforts by the bookstore staff, GSC is now free of all outside funding

By RUSS L. BROCK

As incredible as the headline may seem, it is quite accurate. Last year, when budgetary requirements and expectations were handed down from the Board of Regents, a typographical error resulting in an additional zero and the movement of a decimal point to the right, changed a reasonable expected profit margin of 30 percent to a seemingly impossible goal of 3000 percent! The error went entirely undetected due to the past record of stupidity and incompetence previously exhibited by the Board of Regents.

Rather than wasting their time hopelessly battling to change the edict handed down from an obstinate group of incoherent old codgers, the management team of the GSC Bookstore put their heads together and determined that they would indeed meet the seemingly impossible expectations. In the previous five quarters the mighty management of the facility has increased profits by leaps and bounds that would turn Lee Iacocca positively green with envy.

Unfortunately, these monstrous profits were turned at the extra expense of the student body. However, there is some good news. The college is now completely independent of state funding, therefore we are going to declare ourselves a university. With money comes power. Our first move, motivated by no small part vengeance for their treatment of GSC in the past, we are going to have the members of the Board of Regents recommitted to the asylums from which they escaped.

But just how did the GSC Bookstore do it? 3000 percent profit? I went to one of the members of the management team of the bookstore and was refused an audience with any of said group. But I was determined. I finally caught one of the managers as he was leaving work. I collared him and refused to relinquish my grasp until some questions were answered. To accomplish such unreasonable profit margins, certain deals made in smoke-filled conference rooms had to be made with publishers and department heads. (Nixon would be so proud, so might Ronnie) It is the result of these conferences that prohibit us from being able to sell back even half of our books. Of course, the books have to be sold at four times the wholesale price. Kickback from the publishers is of vital importance. No names were provided. At this point I became disgusted with my presumed "Deepthroat's" scanty information and lack of specifics. He did disclose that, due to the success of "The Profit Program" as it had been dubbed, the new $9.5 million student center was being financed entirely with a portion of those profits. At this point I released my informant and he stepped into his Rolls and told his chauffeur to drive on.

So now when you are told that your 1984 English handbook is no longer being bought back because "we don't speak that language now," just realize where the money is going. Also, don't fall for that line about Moby Dick being discovered to be a Great White Tuna instead of a whale Melville portrayed him to be. They have to tell you something and they have completely exhausted credible reasons. Now when you go to sell your books back you may not feel as compeled as I once did to bend over and back in the door. You see, when it comes to profits, we are the ones who are getting it but now it seems we are right back where we started from.

Optimist's Corner By SAMMY SMILES

Hey Dudes! Well as you can see the Curmudgeon is a little "under the weather" so I've come to help cheer you up after all his empty-headed criticism.

Here are a few steps you can take to make your life more fun while you're here at college:

First, drive your car to all your classes every day. Walking is just no fun.

Second, join a fraternity so you will never have to drink by yourself.

Third, never study. Studying is simply a waste of good party time.

Remember to always ask Mom and Dad for more money every chance you have. Sure, they bought you your car and are paying your way through college but this is no reason not to hit them up for a little extra 'fun money.'

You people are here to party not learn (only a geek would do that), so blow off classes, drink beer and have a great spring quarter. You know you've earned it!

Special Award created to honor Lee Davis

Lee Davis is now the proud owner of every award ever conceived of by this college. Photo by Lisa Cornwell

By FRANK J. FUDPUCKER

In an event that has rocked the usually quiet world of academic life here at GSC, Lee Davis, a senior in political arts, has been awarded GSC's first and only OMNIBUS award.

This new award, designed by acting president Harry Carter, is made to represent an amalgamation of all the individual awards the college has to offer. Carter commented that, since Davis was collecting awards faster than the college could produce them, action had to be taken.

The solution settled upon by a special panel commissioned by the college to study the problem was to simply give Davis a large monetary award for all his good work. Carter decided to ignore the panel's findings though and create the OMNIBUS award.

The award consists of an eight-and-one-half by eleven inch piece of paper which simply states across the front in large gold letters "Good Job." Once granted this award one is no longer eligible to win anything else from GSC. The award represents superior achievement in everything from poetry to volleyball and will be presented jointly by the heads of every department on campus.

Davis, who is popular with his classmates as well as the stray dogs on campus, has been no stranger to the spotlight since he left his chosen career as a draftsman to live in poverty as a college student. He has amassed nearly every award and/or honor in the state of Georgia and is now facing a lucrative future of running drugs in his 1968 Falcon station wagon. Said Davis in a recent interview, "The future's so bright I gotta wear shades!"

Wagner ham-boned by Pig Supermarket

By BIFF CONDOR
Sports Prepster

GSC Athletic Director Bucky Wagner suffered another embarrassing setback this week when he learned that he was denied a job as a stockboy at Piggly Wiggly Supermarket. Unfortunately for Wagner, this marks the third time in the last six months that he was overlooked for a job.

Late in the fall of 1986, Bucky Wagner was one of the finalists for the Athletic Director's post at the University of Florida. Yet, when Florida President Marshall Criser learned that Tracy Ham was from High Springs Florida—only 30 miles from the Florida campus—Wagner was told he was removed from consideration.

Commented Florida President Criser, "It just disgusted me to learn that Ham and a number of football players were from Florida. But then we learned that star basketball player Brian Newton was from Florida, and that was the last straw. You see, the coaches he hired know that Florida area better than we do, that's embarrassing. Let him stay in Statesboro."

Florida hired LSU football coach Bill Arnsparger as Athletic Director. Then, surprisingly, LSU fired its Athletic Director Bob Broadhead. Undaunted, Bucky Wagner applied for the position.

This time, the pendulum seemed to be swinging in Wagner's favor. GSC did not recruit in the Louisiana area in any sport, and Bucky had painstakingly learned that Baton Rouge meant "Red Stick" when translated from French to English.

But, as fate would have it, LSU chose a more qualified candidate—SEC basketball announcer Joe Dean. Mr. Dean was not surprised by his selection.

"I was easily the most qualified candidate for the position. It was obvious to everyone that Bucky (Wagner) had a personal vendetta against Florida. He figured that if Florida hired an LSU coach for its Athletic Director's position, then he would just go to LSU and show them up. Personally, I don't think Bucky (Wagner) is qualified to be a stockboy at any grocery store."

Well, lo and behold, Bucky Wagner had yet another ax to grind. He was not going to let that raspy voice ex-announcer question his ability. He would prove to Joe Dean and everyone else that he was indeed qualified to be a stockboy.

So, off to Piggly Wiggly market he went for his stockboy interview. Confident that his experience at Vanderbilt, Florida State, and GSC would carry weight with the Piggly Wiggly management, he was turned down in favor of a journalism major at GSC.

Commented John Piggly, co-owner of the store, "Mr. (Bucky) Wagner had none of the qualities we were looking for. He is ambitious, successful, and wanting a chance to succeed at a higher level. We needed to hire someone with no goals in life, no ability to communicate, and whose thoughts erupt in a boring stream of inverted pyramids. Needless to say, this job definitely required a journalism major."

So, what does the future hold for Bucky Wagner? He said, "We've won back-to-back football national championships, conference championships in men's and women's basketball, and the baseball team won its conference last year. But, deep down, I yearn for something more. Piggly Wiggly would have been a great opportunity but I need a new challenge. I know, I'll run PTL Club, they need new leadership."

Let's all pray Bucky gets this job.

Eagle Creek hazardous stream

By DASH RIPROCK
Sports Prep Guy

A newly released study by the Food and Drug Administration revealed today that "Beautiful Eagle Creek" contains unknown elements that may be harmful to humans. This two year study on the rapidly moving stream that bisects the Georgia Southern campus hinted at terrible consequences for human consumption and possible temporary sterilization.

Startled GSC officials banned all recreational and athletic use of the tainted stream that has long been the subject of controversy and water control referendums. The "creek" was posted as hazardous by the GSC campus security with signs proclaiming, "swim at own risk" and "no boating allowed."

Eagle Creek has been long supposed to contain hidden powers that bring athletic victory to teams that use the legendary water. It has been rumored that Eagle Creek water helped in GSC's remarkable back-to-back national championships in football.

GSC head football coach Erk Russell, one of the leading proponents of Eagle Creek, was astounded and angered by the report.

"I have been using Eagle Creek water for years and nothing has ever happen to me. I think this whole thing is ridiculous... all that talk about bald laboratory mice and cancer. Beautiful Eagle Creek has been running though this campus for years and nobody has complained yet."

The study performed at the Atlanta Center for Disease Control showed evidence that laboratory mice using the water along with a diet of chocolate donuts and five packs of cigarettes a day exhibited signs of cancer, hair loss and lack of good study habits.

Beautiful Eagle Creek is a popular recreational spot of GSC students and Statesboro residents alike. Every year the Eagle Creek White Water Raft Race and the Intramural Swim Meets are held in the frothy waters of Eagle Creek.

Eagle Creek has been the inspiration for many famous songs and poems such as: "By the banks of old Eagle Creek," "I lost my love in the foamy waters of Beautiful Eagle Creek" and the inspirational favorite "Drop Kick me Jesus through the goal post of life so I might fall in Beautiful Eagle Creek." Even Bill Dance, the famous television bass fisherman, was to do a special broadcast honoring the abundant fishing found in Eagle Creek.

Giff Smith, a GSC football player, considers the loss of Eagle Creek to be a terrible event.

"Eagle Creek is a landmark here at GSC. Gosh, it's right next to our practice fields. It won't be the same to end practice without a long, refreshing swim in the frothy waters of Beautiful Eagle Creek."

Kerns inks "best recruits" in history of man ?????

By TANK TARENTINO
Sports Slop

The GSC cagers landed what one Big 10 coach called, "the best basketball recruiting class in the history of the game." The Eagles successfully inked the top six players in the world which should guarantee Southern a place in the NCAA Tournament for the next four years. Listed below are the signee profiles.

*Jerry Tarzanian, 6-5, 205, Forward
Rated the top player in Zimbabwe. Dick Vitale called him the next Akeem "The Dream" Olajuwon—only smaller. His 52-inch long arms were stretched by years of swinging on vines to avoid defenders. He had narrowed his choices to GSC, UNLV and Georgetown. The selling point for Southern, he felt, was "African Night" at Landrum last quarter.

*Chiefs Flying Jam, 6-6, 210 and Monster Slam, 6-7, 251

Chiefs Flying Jam and Monster Slam: fun at parties.

This brother combination were the second and third rated forwards in the world. Jam and Slam both averaged over 40 points a game for the Aztec Sun Gods—amazingly all on dunks. Coach Frank Kerns called them, "Two of the most devastating dunkers I have ever seen, but God help us if one of them takes an outside shot—it could end up as a main dish on Landrum's "African Night." Jam and Slam both chose GSC over all the Los Angeles and Rio Grande schools because of the necessary green cards.

*Abdul Automobile, 6-2, 185, Guard
Abdul Automobile, brother of former NBA star M.L. Carr, was the fourth rated player in the world. The Bronx, NY native chose the GSC Eagles over San Quentin prison. Abdul averaged over 35 points and three arrests during his senior season at Bedford Minimum Security High School. His first SAT score was only 400, which prompted Vince Dooley to begin recruiting him as their quarterback of the future. But, after stealing a copy of the SAT, he raised his score to 700 and Dooley backed off for fear of signing someone smarter than he. Abdul should give GSC its much needed depth on the bench and police lineup.

*Gunther Heinz, 7-2, 270, Center
Heinz proved the long-established tradition that dark beer is drunk by thick-necked guys named Gunther. Coach Frank Kerns personally made the trip to Bonn, West Germany to sign Heinz, and meet some fabulous German babes. Heinz, while being the heir to the ketchup company, is no small fry. Opponents were in constant fear of his Blitzkreig dunk. This assault on helpless defenders drew raves from every coach in the world, but GSC won the war with the promise of all the Michelob Dark he could drink.

*Jawaan Lawaan Layece Zalora Smith, 4-7, 105, Guard
Jawaan was voted the Chicago player-of-the-year all four years in high school. He compares favorably to

Atlanta Hawk Spud Webb. N.C. State coach Jim Valvano calls Smith, "the prototype point guard—whatever prototype means?" Coach Kerns believes that Jawaan could play immediately if Southern could only find a uniform small enough to fit him. When asked about the culture shock in Jerry Tarzanian a real swinger in need of a haircut.

Statesboro, he replied, "No kidding, so that's where Boy George is from." N.C. State and the Harlem Globetrotters both lost Smith to the Eagles.

Hanner Fieldhouse should be rocking next year with all of the incoming talent. Look for GSC to be in the Associated Press and United Press International Pre-season Top 10 and on probation with this recruiting class.

Intramural Corner

This quarter the intramural department is offering many new and exciting events to stimulate the student body and bring about that needed exercise. Intramural Director Chris Duke is expecting a record turnout for these events.

*Sex Week—April 7-14
One on One Tournament
Two on One Tournament
S and M festival
Deviations Day

*Drug Testing Evasion Contest—All participants attempt to evade the special NCAA investigators by any means possible. Sorry no steroid users allowed. There will be a three kilo entry fee.

*Slam Dunk Contest—Limited to slow, awkward white boys. The court will feature a seven foot goal and each contestant will be allowed five attempts per dunk. Note: Mini-tramps will be allowed.

*Under 2.0 GPA Softball Tournament—Each team will try to be the first to have all of it's players disqualified due to academic ineligibility.

*Entrance to Locked Gym Contest—Each five man team will attempt to convince the immovable security guard to open the closed gymnasium. Afterwards, the teams will attempt to break in the gym in any means possible. Special Equipment: Crowbar, Screwdriver and Packets of 50 dollar bills.

*Nude Volleyball—coed teams only. All competitors must have complete physicals done by Intramural Director Chris Duke. All female competitors must submit grainy 8x10 glossy to the intramural department by April 6.

Lady Eagles beat the crap out of Kern's Cagers

By MOOSE MARCIANO
Sports Guy

Phyllette Blake and Regina Days combined for 74 points as the GSC Lady Eagles completely dominated the undermanned Southern Eagles 107-56. Blake, the NSWAC player of the year, was the leading scorer in the game with 43 points, 23 rebounds and went 16 of 17 from the field.

Normal Guys

Well Hello! The normal guys here: Mike Mills and Lance Smith. We are stepping out of our characters this week so that we can print a few letters that have been piling up on our desk over the last months. These are actual letters from actual students and faculty. Remember as always, no waging.

Dear Normal Guys—

What are "Inverted Pyramids?"

Signed a concerned Journalism Student

Deer Normal Guis—

I be thinks u Jok Guis stink! All u Guis talk bout is beer and hell! If I wanted to heer that kind of talk: I'd talk to mi mudder. Youse guis ain't proffessionnals and don't knows how to right! Name withheld apon request

Dear Normal Guys—

Where do Biff and Dash shop? I'd really like to find some of those Duckhead kakhis and Oxford buttdowns. I think those guys are killer!

Signed a Sigma Chi

Dear Normal Guys—

Like fer sure! We are narlied out about Skip and Corky coming to the George-Anne. Those Jock Guys gagged us with a spoon! Yuck! I wouldn't be caught dead at the beach with any Jock person. Like far out! California forever!

Love Ya, Val Miniskirt

Dear Normal Guys—

We strongly resent your comments about the Yearbook being a "stellar institution being as good as the bathroom walls." We are doing important work here in the Reflector office with those great pictures of the cheerleaders jumping around and funny stories about the food at Landrum! Besides, I never write on the bathroom walls when I am away from home and my crayons.

Angry member of the Reflector yearbook staff

Dear Normal Guys—

As a duly appointed member of the Faculty Sensory Board, I would like to address the use of the word "hell" in your colum. We feel that use of such vulgar language in the 'college newspaper is uncalled for and reflects badly on the school! Just think what would happen if all the students used this form of profanity in their everyday speech! So, stop it or we'll call your parents!

Sincerely, Dr. Dean Dudley, Dean of Dreary

Dear Normal Guys—

Do you think that Tank and Moose could buy our beer for us? All the beer stores around here won't take our phony I.D.s. How can we become sucessful students without beer?

Signed the guys at Oxford

Dear Normal Guys—

Alright Tank and Moose! Tell it like it is! You guys can drink with me anytime just as long as you bring the beer!

Signed Ralph Rednose

The ladies never trailed in the game and lead at halftime 57-22. Days was unstoppable inside and was able to score at will against the TAAC player of the year Brian Newton who fouled out in the first half. Days scored 31 points and continued her NCAA leading free throw percentage with a 17 for 17 performance from the line.

Lady Eagle Coach Jean Milling was naturally happy with the post-season win. "We played very well tonight. I thought that Coach Kerns had his team was well prepared, but the margin of victory surprised me. I thought they were better than that."

Other Lady Eagle scorers included Antoinette Brown with 23 and Christa Couch with 13 points and an outstanding 28 assists. The entire Eaglette bench saw playing time as Milling used 12 players in the rout. Coach Kern's Eagles fresh from their narrow loss to #10 Syracuse in the NCAA Tournament, seemed unable to move the ball effectively against the ferocious Lady Eagle full court press. Point guard Michael Stokes was constantly harassed and had a team record 26 turnovers.

"They never let up," sighed Stokes. "We tried to move the ball around and they stole it every time. They must have had 50 points on turnovers. I just took one look at Antoinette and Christa and I would dribble the ball off my foot. They were awesome."

Jeff Sanders was the Eagle's high scorer with nine points and could manage just four for 20 from the field. The Lady Eagles shot a sizzling 79 percent from the floor to the miserable 15 percent of Kern's Eagles. Five different Eagles fouled out of the game as Kern's squad committed 56 fouls.

Coach Kerns was naturally upset at the loss, but stated that they would try again next year.

"They beat us in all phases of the game. We didn't shoot well and they did. This is the worst loss that I have been associated with in all my years of coaching. I would put Blake up against any player in the country right now. It's a good thing that we won't have to play them until after next year's season. All my players are banged up; those girls really play rough out there."

Phyllette Blake considered the game to be an easy one and was not surprised at the outcome.

"We play against those guys (the Eagle men) all the time. I knew that I could push Jeff (Sanders) around inside. I'd just stick him with an elbow and he'd move out of the way. I'm sorry, I broke J.J.'s nose, but he shouldn't have tried to block my shot."

Coach Kerns and the entire GSC coaching staff was ejected in the second half after they collected an unbelievable eight technical fouls on a disputed play. Kerns was apparently upset after Days scored on an alley-oop and landed on the Eagle mascot.
